

I Know You Won't Forget

Illustrations by Carol Jordan

Story by Truly Blessed Ink

Joey was a young boy who enjoyed playing baseball and soccer.

He lived with his mother and had to help her around the house while his father was away in the military.

Joey was still upset when he got home from school that day. He shouted, "How could you forget my birthday party?!"

Before she could answer, Joey screamed, "I hate you! I wish you weren't my mother!"

I Know You Won't Forget

is the story of a young boy whose mother suffers a traumatic brain injury (TBI). After being embarrassed by his mom's unreliable behavior and ridiculed by his classmates, the boy helps his mom develop coping strategies to overcome her impairments, ultimately finding happiness.

Created, written and illustrated by a group of TBI survivors, this inspirational story provides children with a better understanding of how a brain injury affects everyone in a family and how issues can be resolved.

Suitable for readers ages 8 and up.
